

EmpowerK12 Mid-Year Well-Being

Our COVID Impact Work:

- Multi-LEA Student Well-Being Survey
- Educator Continuous Improvement Networks
- Assessment Data Studies for COVID Slide

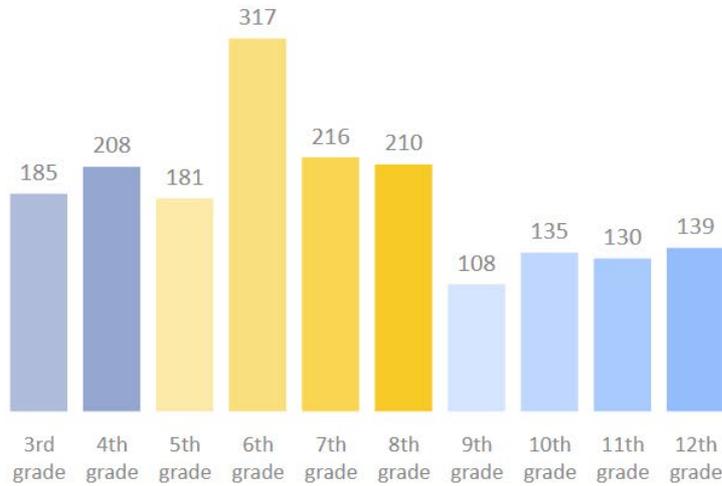

Survey Purpose and Design Principles

- Well-Being Centric The DC Student Well-Being Survey was created and administered for the first time this fall to better understand COVID's impact on student physical and social-emotional well-being in grades 3-12.
- Trend Data Carried over 12 questions from fall to winter and analyzed anonymous data by IP address to observe trends for same students.
- Collaboratively-Designed Participating LEAs, SchoolTalk, and CHHCS joined a design meeting to select items most relevant to school needs. Items for consideration were added by PAVE PLE members, SBOE, and Council.
- National and Local Comps Used items from Panorama and YouthTruth survey for national comparison and possible citywide comps with more LEAs in the future. Schools received "similar schools" report for meaningful local comparisons with statistical significance testing embedded.

Safe Neighborhood?

Top level findings

- Food and Safety Matter We found key differences in how students are feeling and their likelihood to feel confident about being successful based on how they answered 2 questions:
 - Is there always enough food available for you and your family?
 - How often have you felt physically unsafe in your neighborhood?
- Students Remain Resilient with more than half of students saying they are “very confident” they will be successful at school the rest of this year (up from 40% in fall) with 81% “somewhat or very confident”
- Positive School Adult Relationships are the norm with students saying there is an adult at school they can go to for help (86%, up from 79%).
- Positive Trend Data For responses utilizing the same IP address in both fall and winter, we mostly saw responses trending in the positive direction

Additional School-Level Impact Data

- EmpowerK12 provided schools with a comparison of their students' responses to the responses of students at “similar schools”
- The similar schools methodology utilized a mathematical calculation called RMSE, root mean square error, and were combined and weighted at the school-level based on the similarity index
- The school comparison report flagged student response rates that approached and exceeded statistical significance for being different from similar schools
- Schools observed differences in response rates for all students, students with housing instability, and students with food scarcity
